Princess Of Old China At The Fete

Group Of Orientals In Costume Add Color To Scenic Point Festival

Three Chinese women—a princess, a movie actress and a Shanghai real estate dealer; a New York architect, and a doctor Wednesday noon shared honors with the city's grand old Wistaria vine as objects of attention of hundreds of local and out-of-town sightseers at Scenic Point.

The princess was Princess Der Ling, well-known author and one-time first lady in waiting to the late Empress Dowager of China. The movie actress was Miss Soo Young, featured Chinese player at M-G-M studios. The real estate dealer was Miss Phoebe Wang, associated with a large Chinese firm in Shanghai. The architect was H. K. Murphy, member of the Murphy-Dana Company of New York and architectural advisor to the present Nationalist government. The doctor was Dr. Thaddeous C. White, American husband of Princess Der Ling.

Guests of the Wistaria Association ,the quintet strolled beneath the vine's lavender blossoms, had themselves photographed by a Fox Movietone News cameraman and lunched at a beautifully decorated table inside Scenic Point's pavilion. Acting as host and hostess were Mrs. W. J. Lawless and George W. Pearson.

Both Miss Young and Miss Wang were dressed in colorful Chinese clothes. Princes Der Ling wore a red hat, a gray tailored suit and a corsage consisting of a single Belle of Portugal rose.

A member of the family in power at the time the Republicans overthrew the old Imperial government, Princess Der Ling was a close friend of the Empress Dowager.

"Often," she said, her dark eyes twinkling, "as friend to friend I contradicted the empress. Why she didn't cut my head off, at the very least, is still a mystery to me! Goodness knows, I gave her excuses enough for it!"

Perhaps her gracious manner charmed the old empress much as today it captures persons everywhere in her adopted country.

A resident of the United States since 1927, her present home is in Culver City, hard by the vast sprawling studios where her friend, Miss Young, earns her livelihood emoting in a very un-Oriental manner before the sound cameras.

Expressing her pleasure at the vine and the Wistaria Town generally, Princess Der Ling startled her host and hostess with the statement that she and her husband are planning to build a "big place somewhere in the foothills." She hinted that she was giving serious thought to Sierra Madre.

Drawing on her romantic childhood in the Far East and her intimate knowledge of China, Princess Der Ling has written many books on the Manchu Dynasty and on odd and interesting places in the Celestial Republic. Two of her better known books are "Forbidden City" and "Old Buddha." Her first novel—with, of course, a Chinese background—will be published next winter.

In his capacity as architectural advisor to the Nationalist government Architect H. K. Murphy has become a close friend of Gen. Chang Kai Shek, the present No. 1 Chinese war lord. Murphy practically rebuilt most of the government buildings at Nanking. He also designed the famous Yeuching University building at Peking.

Two Hundred Attend Purim Dinner At Temple Beth Israel

About two hundred people from Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Duarte, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Altadena, Monrovia and El Monte attended the annual Purim dinner given at Temple Beth Israel on Sunday evening for the benefit of the Temple Beth Israel Palestine fund. Mr. and Mrs. David Resnick were host and hostess for the evening.

Gedalia Bublick of Palestine who is visiting on the Pacific Coast, was the speaker of the evening, discussing the Palestinc National fund. Mrs. B. Weinberger, celloist from Long Beach, and Mrs. Clara Hammer, vocalist, accompained at the piano by D. Sirvan, furnished the musical program.

Talented Hometown Girl Goes East For New Honors

Miss Elizabeth Morgridge, talented young Sierra Madre violinist; her finance and accompanist, Harlow John Mills, and her teacher, Vera Barstow, left Tuesday for Indianapolis to attend a convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs—and to compete in a nation-wide contest of violinists.

Miss Morgridge recently won first place in a division competition sponsored by clubs in the California-Nevada-Arizona district thereby qualifying for the Indianapolis contest.

A reception and tea honoring Miss Morgridge and Miss Moreland Kortkamp, 20-year-old Sierra Madre pianist, was held by Federation officials Monday at the Hollywood home of Mrs. Walter Goodfellow, prominent NFMC official.

Real Camp In Mountains Planned

Charlton Flats Will Soon Be An Ideal Recreational Center

A baseball diamond, tennis courts, a trailer campground and many other unusual features are included in development plans for Charlton Flats, Maj. J. P. Kaye of the U. S. Forest Service told Legionnaires of Sierra Madre and San Gabriel Valley cities at tree-planting exercises conducted at the Legion Memorial Grove at Charlton Flats Monday.

A total of 125 young trees were planted. The ex-service men, who were accompanied by their wives and children, set out three types of trees native to tthe area, incense cedar, coulter pines and pondersa pines.

The children snowballed each other while their mothers prepared luncheon, which was eaten beneath the pine trees.

So that the Charlton Flats project can go forward rapidly this summer, the ERA camp has been increased to 100 men, Legionnaires learned.

City Becomes Mecca For The Poets

Contest For Best Verse On The Wistaria Vine Will Be Decided Tomorrow

That Western poets stage a sit-down strike in editorial offices throughout the land unless poetry is better remunerated is one resolution that will be introduced at the Poets' Congress that will intervene between the poets' dinner and the poetry tournament and musicale, starting at 7:45, on Poets' Day at the Wistaria Fete this Saturday, April 17th, according to Ralph Cheyney, poetry chairman.

More than a hundred poems—102, to be exact—were submitted in the Wistaria poetry contest coming from many communities throughout Southern California and by visitors from other parts of the nation. The prize-winning poems will be read by their authors or Lucia Trent as part of the evenings' entertainment, which will be adapted to all tastes. Many of the poems are reported to be of exceptional charm.

The singing of the Sierra Madre Wistaria song by Miss Olive Sedgeman, Miss Beth Harvey, Mrs. George Coble and Mrs. John Gulland, pupils of Mrs. Nelle Lewis Vieira, of Sierra Madre, accompanied by the Arcadian cellist, Miss Betty Horne, or as she is known in private life, Miss Elizabeth L. Schermerhorn, will be a highlight of the evening. The words of this song, on sale locally, are by Lucia Trent and Ralph Cheyney, the music by Marian Westgarth Richards.

A poetry recital by Mrs. Mary Ward, Mrs. Florence Eakman, Mrs. Leona D. Cole and Noureddin Addis, four of Sierra Madre's foremost poets, will be another feature.

Still another Sierra Madre talent in musical, literary and possibly terpsichorean arts will make the evening a treat, all this in addition to the Southland's first Poetry Tournament, in which many prominent poets, some from a long distance, have promised to participate. A special dinner program is also being planned. The dinner will start at 6, and judging from the many reservations already received, it will be a most successful affair.

Festival To Continue For A Week

Cool Nights Preserve Blooms As Great Vine Becomes A Real Social Center

Extension of the city's wistaria fete for at least another week or ten days, thus assuring additional thousands of Southland and out-of-state sightseers a chance to witness Sierra Madre's unique and breath-taking festival, was decided on yesterday as attendance figures chalked up since the Fete's opening three weeks ago appeared virtually certain to outstrip all previous records.

More than 5000 persons motored up to Scenic Point Sunday and by last night the amazing total of nearly 25,000 visitors had seen the city's "acre of lavender loveliness,"

With the Fete continuing for at least one more week—and possibly two—prediction that this year's attendance totals would likely set a new high was voiced by officials, who pointed out that cool nights and mornings have had a beneficial "ice box" effect on the famous vine, preserving its beauty and heightening the rich lavender hues of the blooms.

Cultural leaders, scientists movie stars and lovers of the beautiful from many states and foreign lands mingled with the townsfolk in the gay whirl of social events at the Fete this week, when all attendance records were broken and the lovliness of Sierra Madre and its annual festival were broadcast by radio and moving pictures to all the world.

Awakened to the marvelous setting of the great vine, Scenic Point has become a distinctive social center for local residents and visitors from Los Angeles, Pasadena and the surrounding country, dinner, tea and luncheon reservations under the great trailer taxing the capacity of the culinary department as visitors are entertained and social obligations discharged.

Entertaining at the vine on Monday, were Mrs. Baily of Monrovia, whose guest list included, Mmes. Gore, McDaniel, Atkins, Garner, Box and Renaker.

Adolph Menjou, movie star and his wife, Vera Teasdale, were luncheon guests at noon. Mrs. J. S. Billheimer entertained Madam Arkland of Monrovia at luncheon. Mrs. E. P. Callender was hostess to a party of four and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, hostess to four guests. Mrs. A. N. Edwards of Pasadena had a party of seven for luncheon. Mrs. Grace Richter of Sierra Madre, a party of six, and Mrs. L. Meyn of Los Angeles a party of four for dinner. A three o'clock tea, served in the pergola, honored the present president, Mrs. W. J. Lawless and past presidents of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club. Mrs. Harriet Wright of Pasadena, first president of the club was present. The occasion celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of the club.

Members of the Citrus Belt Bankers Association, representing San Gabriel and Pomona Valley cities, tonight will attend a banquet at Scenic Point. Rollin C. Lewis, vice-president of the Sierra Madre Savings Bank and president of the Chamber of Commerce will act as host.

Mrs. Lawless, and other Fete officals attended the weekly meeting of the Los Angeles Breakfast Club Wednesday morning at the Ambassador Hotel. A feature of the meeting, which was broadcast over a Southern California hookup, was a description of the city's Wistaria Fete by Harold Lamb, president of the club.

Mrs. Jessie M. Royer, 123 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., entertained on Monday with a luncheon for seven, honoring Mrs. Carolyn Gross of New York, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. F. Whittacker of Valley Blvd., and Mr. and Mrs. John Wright of Long Beach, who are sailing for Scotland next month. Those present for the occasion were Mrs. F. Whittacker, Valley Blvd.; Mrs. Collison, El Monte; Mrs. W. Harsha, Valley Blvd.; Mrs. Carolyn Gross of New York; Mr. and Mrs. John Wright, Long Beach; and Mrs. Royer.

Dinner guests at the Wistaria Fete of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Klunk, 142 Santa Anita Court, last week included, Dr. and Mrs. D. Buie Garstang and son Donald of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Rash, Alhambra, Mrs. Lida Grant and Miss Ruth Klunk of Sierra Madre.

The Sierra Madre Hardware Co. entertained on Monday evening at a 7 o'clock dinner at the vine for the employees and their invited guests. Seventeen were present. The large round table at-

Iris Show To Be Held Here Next Week

Home Gardens To Furnish Material For Scenic Point Exhibition

Pledging their personal support in furtherance of permanent activities of a cultural nature at Scenic Point, members of the city planning commission, at a dinner at the wistaria vine Wednesday night, endorsed the holding of an Iris Show, to take place next weekend, April 24-25 at Scenic Point.

Simultaneously, the group approved formation of a civic arts body, to be known as the Madrean Arts Group of the Wistaria Vine Gardens.

All local gardeners and flower lovers are asked to enter exhibits in the two-day show, which will climax next week's wistaria fete activities.

Thanks to the winter's abundant rainfall, iris-growers report blooms more prolific and colorful than ever before. That the show will be an impressive and beautiful spectacle is freely predicted.

Members of the commission present included Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Woehler, R. C. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Perley Poore Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs Al S. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Lester K. Layton, Mrs. John Osgood, Mrs. W. J. Lawless, George W. Pearson, Mrs. Ray Caukin, Doris Goshorn and L. R. Goshorn.

The evening's hosts and hostesses, representing the Wistaria Association, were Mrs. Lawless, Mrs. Caukin, Mr. Myers and Mr. Pearson.

Ministers To Denounce Court Plan

Sunday Set Aside For Protests Against Packing High Tribunal

Next Sunday has been designated by most of the churches in this country as "Supreme Court Independence Sunday," and hundreds of ministers of all denominations will direct their sermons toward apprising their congregations of the dangers to their liberty and religious freedom, which they see lurking behind President Roosevelt's proposal to reconstruct the Supreme Court.

These minister will assist the Southern California committee for Supreme Court Independence, because "American Religious Freedom is tottering down upon the abyss of destruction," in the words of one minister.

The ministers from their pulpits will ask their congregations to write to their congressmen and senators voicing in no uncertain language their protest against the Roosevelt Supreme Court plan.

For those who protest against enactment of that portion of the President's proposal affecting the Supreme Court there will be circulated petitions which may be signed by local taxpayers and citizens.

Many are signing petitions to the Hon. Hiram W. Johnson and William Gibbs McAdoo. A Los Angeles group headed by McIntyre Faries is putting out a petition with their slogan "Will you as a citizen, join with others in petitioning Congress to oppose any legislation 'packing' the Supreme Court?"

The Pro America, California chapter of San Francisco, is circulating a petition, also a woman's organization, "The Southern California Committee for Supreme Court Independence."

These petitions are available at The News office for those who have not already signed protests.

Scientists Hear Woman Exponent

Chicago Lecturer Speaks To Filled Auditorium At Grammar School

An audience that filled the grammar school auditorium on Sunday night heard the lecture on "Christian Science brings Enlightenment" by Miss Margaret Morrison, of Chicago, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church in Boston. Miss Morrison said, in part:

The first command from God given in the Bible is, "Let there be light," and the record reads,

Great Register Of '96 Shows Only 138 Votes Here

At a meeting of the Sierra Madre Historical Society held in the home of William Lauren Rhoades, 529 West Highland avenue last week, Arthur Carter presented the organization with a "great register" of Los Angeles County, of 1896, which contained interesting data, such as names of all voters in Los Angeles County, a complete description as to age, height, weight, complexion, color of hair and eyes, birthplace, date of naturalization (if any) and whether they could read or wrtie. The great register gave the population of Sierra Madre in that year as 138 voters.

Henry Isaacs' Ashes Cast On Mt Wilson

A SILVER-WINGED monoplane wheeled and dipped in the sunlight above Mt. Wilson Tuesday morning. From the plane, piloted by Alfred James Dewey, Jr., were scattered the ashes of Henry Isaacs, one-time city councilman here, builder of the present Sierra Madre post-office and former owner of "Casa de Alegria," beautifully landscaped estate at 332 Sturtevant Drive, where he died January 9.

As the plane circled over the mountains he loved, city officials paused briefly in tribute to their former colleague. The flag at the city hall was lowered to half mast during the morning.

While the ashes of her husband were being cast over the mountain tops where he wished his earthly remains to lie, Mrs. Isaacs and intimate friends held a last service within the spacious house as "Casa de Alegria."

Born in Somerset, Canada, in 1864, Mr. Isaacs at one time

Wilson High Celebration Monday

Many Activities Scheduled For School's Tenth Anniversary

The week of April 19-23 Woodrow Wilson Junior High School will celebrate the tenth anniversary of its founding. The school was established in 1927.

The celebration week will open Monday April 19, with the circulation of a special ten page edition of the Wilsonian, school newspaper.

The faculty will celebrate Wilson's birthday by asking former teachers to join them at a dessert-theatre party, Tuesday, April 20, having as special guests Dr. John A. Sexson, superintendent of Pasadena city schools, Mrs. Sexson, and George Merideth, superintendent.

Many activities are scheduled for Wednesday, April 21. Homecoming meetings will be held by both the boys league and the girls athletic association. The boys league will have as their guests all former boys welfare commissioners, past boy presidents of the student body, and boys who have been awarded the Kiwanis pin, which is an award presented annually to the senior girl and boy who have been the most outstanding all-round students during their four years in the junior high school.

The girls athletic association will also invite former girls athletic commissioners and the girls who have won the Kiwanis award. These alumnae will also be invited to attend a luncheon prior to the meeting.

Another feature of Wednesday will be a baseball game after school between present Wilson students and the alumni.

To the P.T.A. meeting which will take place on Thursday, April 22, past presidents and former patrons of the P.T.A. for the past ten years have been invited.

Friday, April 23, a special double assembly program featuring alumni talent has been arranged.

The anniversary celebration will close with an alumni dance on Friday evening. A special committee of present senior class students will act as hosts.

Classes which have been added over the ten-year period are stagecraft, piano, commercial arithmetic, band, boys glee club, boys foods, and art metal.

Proposed enlargments at Wilson include 12 additional classrooms, a cafeteria, a gymnasium and girls' locker room.

City Takes On Arty Air In Contest

Many Painters At Work On The Streets Intrigue Visitors To The Festival

That Sierra Madre is the No. 1 "location" for artists —rivalling Carmel and Laguna Beach—is the impression being carried away by thousands of visitors to this year's Wistaria Fete, the most elaborate and beautiful of such affairs in the Wistaria Town's history.

Scores of artists, lured here by the Wistaria Fete Art Contest, are painting throughout the city, as well as under the acre of heavy-scented blooms at Scenic Point.

The busy brush-wielders, many of them dressed in typical "Left Bank" costumes of the artist, are intriguing passing motorists who invariably pull up to inspect the paintings being created miraculously before their very eyes.

It is a rare treat and a never-ending source of comment over the luncheon and dinner tables at Scenic Point.

The list of artists now at work here includes many prominent names from Southland art centers and from Eastern cities.

Among the score or more of brush wielders are Oliver Halbert Chaffey and Roy O. Craffey, St. Louis, Mo.; Adelaide Loeber, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Harry D. Faber, Wanwatosa, Wis.; William Findley, Brentwood, Calif.; Coralice Spaulding, Rose Bandiard Starr and Beatrice M. Pratt, Los Angeles; Mabel George Haig, Whittier, and Felicia and Newell Washburn, Pasadena.

The contest, which it is hoped to make an annual affair, will continue until the end of the month. Judging of the entries will take place at Alfred James Dewey's Old Adobe studio, after which there will be a gala reception and exhibition at Scenic Point.

Scout Camp Dates Are Announced

Cherry Valley Pilgrimages Will Begin With The School Vacation

Through Robert C. Copenhaver, local director of camping, Don Gillies, chairman of the department of camping of the Pasadena-San Gabriel Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, announces the following dates for Camp Cherry Valley, famous Catalina Island Boy Scout camp of this Council: first camp, June 24 to July 3; second camp, July 5 to July 14; third camp, July 15 to July 24; fourth camp, July 26 to August 4; fifth camp, August 5 to August 14. It is anticipated that a very large attendance will make early registration necessary this year in order that all Scouts desiring to attend may secure places in the camp of their choice.

Located 17 miles down the coast from Avalon in a beautiful secluded harbor, Camp Cherry Valley provides an entire valley and beach for the use of Scouts in this Council with one of the finest and safest places in the world for swimming and water activities which are the principal feature of the camp. Witn an expert American Red Cross life saving and swimming instructor on duty at all times, Scouts have an opportunity to make real progress in swimming while attending camp.

Both young and older boys are provided with boating thrills since younger Scouts enjoy rowboating and fishing while the older Scouts coming to camp have available for their use a splendid fleet of war canoes as well as smaller canoes and the more experienced camper enjoys skimming over the water in one of the three fast sail boats belonging to the camp.

A new addition to the boating equipment this year is a glass-bottom boat, presented to the Council Camp by a former Scout of Troop 5, Pasadena. Since the finest under-sea gardens along the Catalina coast are located within 60 feet of the Camp Cherry Valley pier, this new boat will add another wonderful experience to the camp activities of Scouts. Provisions have also been made to view the gardens by night with the aid of search lights.

Woman Asks $1500 To Settle Claim Against The City

Settlement for $1500 of the suit of Mrs. Inez Schuyler, who asserts she tripped over a chuckhole in Michillinda boulevard last summer, is acceptable to attorneys representing the woman, Attorney Dailey S. Stafford informed the city council Wednesday night.

Stafford, who is handling the case for the city, told the council the case has been continued to April 27. In the meantime, if a settlement is agreed on, Stafford said ,no trial will be necessary.

Stafford informed the council that Mrs. Schuyler's attorneys told him that the day after her asserted fall they took measurements and pictures of the hole and were informed that during the next day or so that someone on behalf of the city had filled in the hole with cement.

Gas Taxes Repave Mira Monte Avenue

Work of resurfacing East Mira Monte avenue from Baldwin avenue to Mt. Trail avenue was progressing rapidly yesterday, with the prospect that the job will be completed within the next two to three weeks.

Mira Monte avenue residents haled with delight the start of the long-awaited improvement, funds for which will come out of the city's county gas-tax allocation.

A number of other important street improvement jobs will get under way soon, officials declared yesterday. Nature of the work was not revealed.

Council Asked To Buy Parking Lot

Pointing out that the vacant property adjoining the Canyon Park swimming pool is privately owned and that the owners may sell or improve the property at any time or post No Parking signs on it, E. P. Henry, 445 Sturtevant Drive, Wednesday night suggested that the city council buy the property and convert it into parking lots.

He was told the city is not in a position to buy the property at this time.

City Takes Title To New Thoroughfare

A resolution accepting the West Carter avenue extension as a public street was voted by the city council Wednesday night. The property was accepted from the Title Insurance & Trust company, representing Andrews & Hawks, the former owners.

Norman Chandler To Build New Home At City's Border

Norman Chandler, son of Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, is about to become a next-door neighbor of Sierra Madre.

This was revealed Wednesday night when the city of Arcadia asked the council to install a one-inch water service for Chandler, at 800 West Orange Grove avenue, until such time as Arcadia can put in its own pipes.

Chandler is expected to take out a permit for the house within the next few days, Arcadia building department officials said yesterday.

Noted Speakers To Address Bethany's Bible Conference

The program for the annual May Bible Conference in Bethany Church, is now complete, and contains the names of many well-known persons, some of whom have never been heard in Sierra Madre before.

Capt. Reginald Wallis of Ireland, who is on the Wednesday afternoon program has never been in this western section of the United States but is very well-known for his work in the YMCA's of Ireland, Scotland and Great Britian, and as a conference speaker in the East as well as abroad. He is the author of many books that are especially helpful to young people, and a contributor to "Revalation" and other periodicals.

Tuesday and Wednesday, May 4th and 5th are the dates of this Thirteenth Annual Bible Conference, and everyone is cordially invited to atetnd. See next week's Sierra Madre News for the program in detail.

Aerial Reserves Hear U.S.C. Oil Authority

D. L. Stabler, Dean of the Petroleum Institute of the University of Southern California, will be the guest speaker of the Sierra Madre unit of the American Aerial Reserve, at a dinner celebration next Friday evening, April 23, in the City Hall American Legion dugout. Supper will be served at 6:30. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Norman Jensen at the City Hall.

Trout Flies—New Style in Millinery!

The angling season's almost here and Miss Ida May Hulen is selecting her lures and arranging them decoratively on her hat, where fishermen like to carry theirs. Every kind will be seen at the Automobile Club of Southern California FREE Outing Show, Adams and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles, April 13-18, inclusive. Among the thousand essentials for recreationists fishing tackle holds a conspicuous place. There will be excellent entertainment for everybody day and night, including a California flag pageant. Last year's show was attended by 121,000 persons.

Martin Bill Will Save Many Homes

Tax Moratorium Extended For Another Year; Penalties Are Cut

Assembly Bill No. 12, extending until April 20, 1938, the 10-installment payment plan which abolishes excessive delinquent tax penalties, and providing for methods of redeeming delinquent real property taxes, was passed by the state senate and signed by Gov.

Frank G. Martin

Frank F. Merriam this week. Introduced by Assemblyman Frank G. Martin, who originated the 10-installment payment plan, the bill becomes effective April 20, the deadline for the payment of the last installment of 1936-37 taxes.

A highlight of the bill is the moratorium section which prohibits the sale of tax delinquent property during 1937 and 1938, thus saving homes for thousands of people and foiling tax-lien sharks who grab up properties for small sums.

The bill also prohibits the sale of properties which have been deeded to the state and which became delinquent in 1930 or any subsequent year.

Apart from the moratorium section, the bill provides:

(1) For the redemption in full of all properties on which the taxes were sold to the State on or before July 6, 1937. The redemption may be made at any

New Trolley Trains Here Are Assured By June First

Change-over to the 1000-type cars on the Sierra Madre line of the Pacific Electric company will be made around June 1, officials of the company revealed yesterday.

Originally announced for the middle of this month, the change-over has been postponed so that the new cars can be placed in service on all trains simultaneously, rather than one or two at a time, officials stated.

The cars are now being reconditioned in the Los Angeles shops of the railway company. They are newer, roomier and faster than the present cars.

Lines now served by the 1000-type cars include the Santa Ana line and the Los Angeles-San Pedro line.

Police Wonder Whether Neighbor Or Coyotes Raided This Hen Roost

A suspicion that coyotes are once again on the rampage here received added support the other day when Miss Lalla Fagge, 353 Sycamore Place, reported the disappearance of two Rhode Island red hens.

While there have been comparatively few coyote "raids" lately, the animals regularly swooped down on unprotected hen houses in former years, old timers recalled yesterday.

During the height of their activity they enjoyed real dining-car fare, as well as plump chickens from householders' backyards.

Cooks on one of the Santa Fe night trains made a practice of tossing out galley scraps as the train swept through the Baldwin ranch. It was a regular occurance, and at the first sound of the whistle, several minutes before the speeding train hove into view, the coyotes would scamper down to the right of way in a body, settle down on their haunches and wait for their evennig meal.

At that time the animals had a kind of coyote apartment house in a huge rock pile in the ranch just below Orange Grove avenue. From it they carried on their depredations until one day the irate chicken-owners got together and staged what is still recalled as the "big coyote massacre." Armed with shotguns, they descended on the rock pile and killed off an even dozen marauders. Since then the city has had comparatively little troubled with coyotes.

Roundup For Children PTA Event

Looks Ahead To Entrance Of New Pupils At Grammar School

The Parent-Teacher Association is all agog over what is to be their first 'Summer Round-Up" on May 14th. Mrs. Persis Roach, chairman of this event, wishes to call the attention of the parents to the importance of this work.

If you have a child who is entering kindergarten or first grade next September he will have to compete with other children of his age in the task of adjusting himself to new and wholly surroundings. This is naturally a mental and physical strain.

Is your child physically fit? The Parent-Teacher Association, cooperating with the city schools and health departmen, is offering you the opportunity to have the child given a thorough physical examination without cost or obligation. Even though you feel he is 100 per cent perfect you can make sure by having a doctor verify the fact.

Thursday, May 14th, therefore is reserved for the examination of these children at the Sierra Madre school. Mrs. Roach will be glad to make an appointment for you. There will be ample time allowed for an interview with the physician. And the correction of any defect is left entirely to you.

If you know of any children in the neighborhood not in touch with the school, please pass this information on to their parents.

Throwing care to the winds, our teachers closed schoolbooks with a determined air a few minutes earlier on Monday afternoon and put a few touches of powder on preparatory to the enjoyment of a cup of afternoon tea at the Wistaria Fete in honor of P.T.A. Day at Scenic Point.

While they were absorbing the pastoral loveliness of their surroundings, we will wager, they were still thinking of the exquisite Operatta to be presented on May 13th, the great annual exhibitions also in May, and the "Summer Round-Up" on May 14.

Nevertheless, there was much food for thought and pleasure and Miss Florence Lusted, instructor of art, took away some clever ideas which she will utilize in her painting of flowers and vistas.

The setting would have been perfect for one of Miss Moote's Japanese programs, too. Many Sierra Madre mothers came during the day in behalf of the Parent-Teacher Association, as a percentage of the gate receipts are to be given to the cause. Blonde Gladys Albright, dynamic and resourceful always, has exercised a great deal of initiative this winter to make both ends meet, goodness knows.

Delinquent Taxables Grow Less

Collections Take Decided Spurt As Deadline For 1936-37 Payments Nears

With only five days remaining until the April 20 deadline, tax payments took a new spurt this past week, according to H. L. Byram, county tax collecter. Mr. Byram stated that on the basis of present indications tax delinquencies should show a reduction of at least 10 per cent over those of last year.

At the close of business April 3, collections for the nine month's period dating from the beginning of the fiscal year July 1, 1936, totaled $66,452,775.02. In terms of percentage this is 63.28 per cent of the total year's tax levy of $104,477,550.12.

Last year at the same date, collections totaled $60,157,352.43, or 61.76 per cent of the 1935-36 levy of $96.389,863.64.

Thus for the comparable periods, in terms of percentage, the improvement is 1.52 per cent, Mr. Byram pointed out. In terms of actual cash, the increased amount collected during this entire period is $6,295,422.50. This represents the most notable improvement in collections and most pronounced reduction in delinquencies for any comparable period since 1929, according to My Byram.

The second installment of taxes became due January 20 and becomes delinquent April 20. If taxes are not paid by that date a three per cent penalty is added, plus a 50 cent advertising charge on each item unpaid. The tax rolls close April 20 and a list of delinquent properties with owners indexed alphabetically will be published for three times commencing on or about June 8 in newspapers in all incorporated cities in Los Angeles County.

All taxes unpaid prior to the beginning of the 1936-37 fiscal year may now be redeemed in full, free from all costs and penalties excepting a seven per cent interest charge dating from July 15, 1935, but payments must be made in full or else the installment plan of making payments in ten annual parts must be adopted. To utilize the ten payment plan all current taxes must be paid up.

T. E. Tanner, chief of the redemption division, reports $7,125,000.05 collected on redemptions for the nine months' period ending March 31, as compared with $6,497,637.21 for the comparable nine months' period of 1935-36. The percentage of increase is 9.65 per cent.

Foothill Widening Project May Be Abandoned Now

Hope of widening Foothill Blvd. to a four-lane highway from Santa Anita Blvd., in Lamanda Park to Michillinda avenue appears dim, according to a report made by City Manager C. W. Koiner, of Pasadena, to the Crown City's board of directors.

Only half of the property owners in the first block east of Santa Anita boulevard are willing to deed their property for the widening project, the report stated. The other half are opposed to the widening and will not even consider it.

Unless the majority of property owners along the boulevard deed their land, the project, which would provide a high-speed, four-lane highway direct to Sierra Madre's southwest "front door," will likely fall through, as Pasadena has no money with which to purchase the necessary property, it was pointed out.

I believed, and therefore have I spoken.—2 Cor. iv.13.

The real corrupters of society may be, not the corrupt, but those who have held back the righteous leaven, the salt that has lost its savor, the innocent who have not even the moral courage to show what they think of the effrontery of impurity,—the serious, who yet timidly succumb before some loud-voiced scoffer.—J. STARTLING

California citizens, taking for granted the excellent school system which they support, may wonder somewhat at information on America's formal education, recently made public by the United States Office of Education.

On the eve of "Public School Week," which will be celebrated beginning April 26, the federal office announces that almost half the adults over 21 in the nation are without benefit of even grammar school training. A scant 7 per cet went to high school; 3 per cent, to college.

Viewed from the standpoint of good government as well as education, the averages are startling, particularly in light of the fact that the survey included only those men and women qualified to cast their ballots in local, state and national elections!

THE PHILOSOPHY OF JOE SERRA

I'M up a tree, half the time. Seems like just about everything goin' on, is goin' on backwards from what I got used to when my mother and father was down there on the farm, and us boys we was helpin' around.

We was happy as larks, I know that, even though once in a while we did work a speck and get up a sweat and look as black as the ground, so you wouldn't know us by night, after runnin' a harrow all day. And we tried to raise all the corn we could every year, and some years we raised lots, and some years not so much.

But now, things are so kinda left handed like, that a farmer don't hardly know what to do, cause one year Uncle Sam tells him to slow down, and then the weather turns dry and he has no crop. And this year it is just the opposite, and they are broadcastin' to fill up the corn cribs.

Just like women wearin' men's pants—they sure look comical, and with these swivelchair boys down there in Washington tellin' a regular farmer how much, and how, and where to plow, they are even more comical.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

Case And Comment

By Chas. B. Showalter

FIFTEEN years ago my Sunday school teacher, who happened to be a thinker, made in class what seemed to me then a most astounding statement, as follows: "The American government is by no means an established fact. It is only one experiment in Democracy. It has so far survived all attacks by its avowed enemies, but it yet remains to be shown that it can withstand the attacks of the demagogue, or the stupid machinations of its pretended friends."

That statement at the time aroused all my patriotic antagonisms, because I was certain in my own mind that the United States was as firmly and permanently established as the Rock of Gibralter.

Now it does not appear to be so secure. The attacks referred to are being made with a courage and a purpose worthy of a better cause. The defense is not so well organized or directed as it should be. Those directing the attack on our government, our institutions and the established order are putting out the stupid and meaningless platitudes . . . "The old order must go" . . . "Changing conditions demand change in government." "Economic royalists are destroying the social order" .. . "Run the money changers out of the temple" . . . "The Supreme Court is ancient and has outlived its usefulness," etc.

All of which is false and insincere.

Why then should the Republic survive, and why is it the best government on earth today? The reason lies in the principles upon which it was founded and maintained, most succintly stated by Lincoln when he described it as a Nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, and his declaration that this government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth.

We then, have a government of three departments — executive, legislative and judicial — with equal and co-ordinated powers, with none of them, however, possessing any power except such as is conferred by the people.

In this our government stands unique and alone. In all the Nations of the earth today, ours is the only government that has no power or authority except such as is conferred by the people. In all others the people have no nights or privileges except such as are permitted by the government.

To be a citizen of the United States is a priceless heritage, for as such we enjoy a measure of liberty and free enterprise unknown elsewhere in all the world.

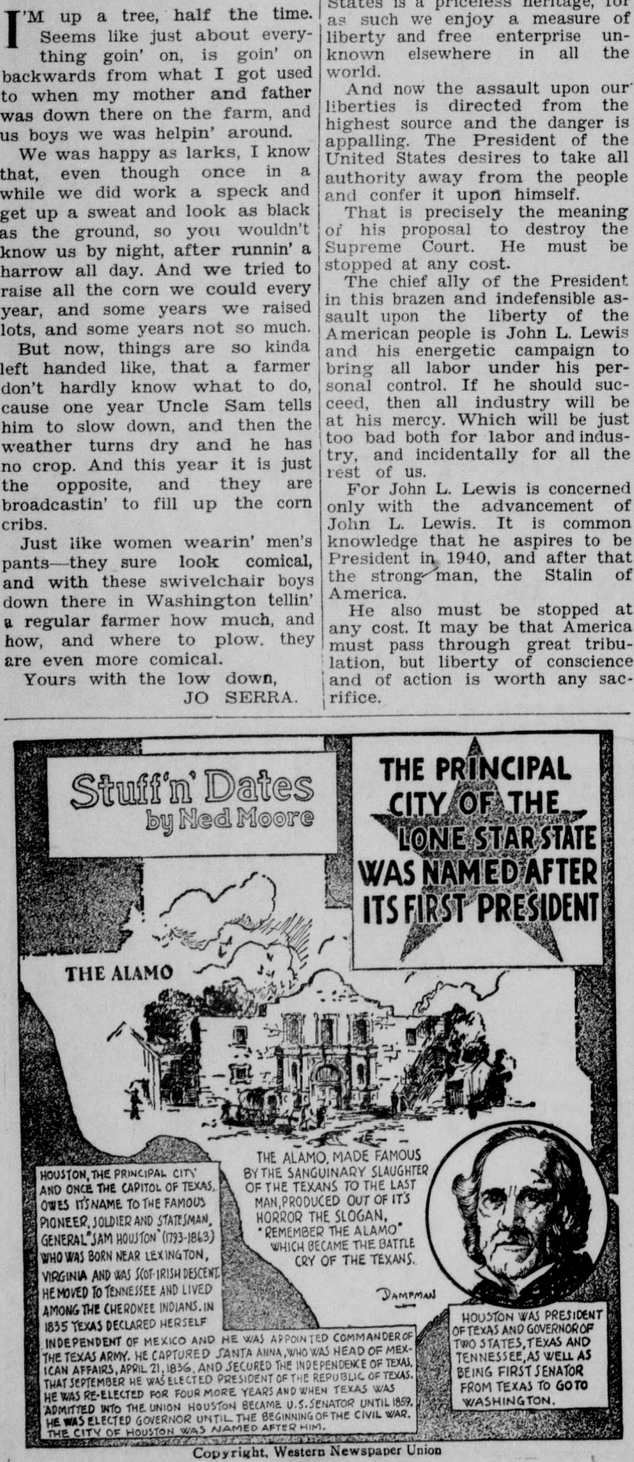

And now the assault upon our liberties is directed from the highest source and the danger is appalling. The President of the United States desires to take all authority away from the people and confer it upon himself.

That is precisely the meaning of his proposal to destroy the Supreme Court. He must be stopped at any cost.

The chief ally of the President in this brazen and indefensible assault upon the liberty of the American people is John L. Lewis and his energetic campaign to bring all labor under his personal control. If he should succeed, then all industry will be at his mercy. Which will be just too bad both for labor and industry, and incidentally for all the rest of us.

For John L. Lewis is concerned only with the advancement of John L. Lewis. It is common knowledge that he aspires to be President in 1940, and after that the strong man, the Stalin of America.

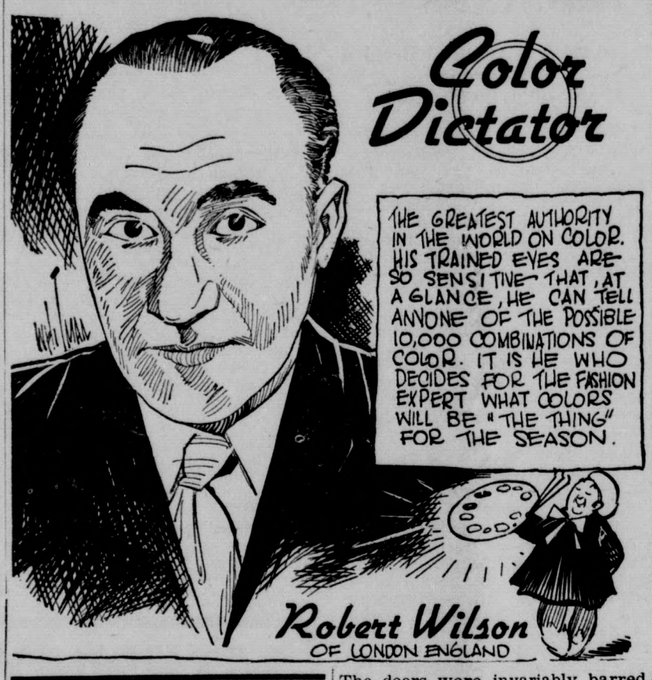

He also must be stopped at any cost. It may be that America must pass through great tribulation, but liberty of conscience and of action is worth any sacrifice.

Gaddin' Around
with BILL PEET

"A riot of color." This time-worn expression overworked by feature writers, poets and others, just about describes California's unsurpassed wild flower show now on dress parade in the Shafter district northwest of Bakersfield.

Countless acres of beautiful poppies, lupines, verbenas, buttercups, wild primroses and many other dainty little blooms of every conceivable color greet the visitor as the wild flower garden is inspected.

Peet

An invited guest I was fortunate to feast my eyes on the most wonderful wild flower show I have ever seen in my life, and was not surprised to note that other Sierra Madreans had picked out last Saturday for this trip. We saw a number of Sierra Madre cars as enraptured as we were.

I cannot believe that any townsfolk who have had an opportunity to see these marvelous wild flowers in full bloom deliberatly stayed at home.

From the office of THE NEWS to the heart of the wild flower blooms in Shafter, the speedometer of our car registered exactly 129 miles, but miles mean nothing to the present day motorist where roads are perfect and the weather fair.

The best route from Sierra Madre, is north towards Bakersfield on U. S. Highway 99. You hit the Seventh Standard road six miles out of Bakersfield, turn left on this road and continue west for four miles until the flower fields are reachced. Signs along the highway insure arrival at the destination without trouble.

The trip over the broad new high gear road over the ridge is a treat in itself.

The best way to describe the Shafter wild flower show would be by means of an artist's canvas, bringing out as nearly as possible the "riot of color" effect. You cannot extoll this display by the mere use of words. The thing to do is to see the show for yourself and you will agree with me that you have seen something.

Are we at the dawn of a new era, or have we passed the threshold of the "Trailer Age?"

The answer may have been found in the National Trailer and Sports Show just concluded at the Pan Pacific auditorium, in Los Angeles, where trailers of every size and description were on display.

Building trailers is a new industry, so I am told, and is growing so rapidly that nobody will predict just how far it will advance.

Skeptics declare that the trailer will go the way of the wee golf course—that it's just a fad, nothing more. Others insist that as the months fly by, more and better trailers will be cluttering up our highways and camps.

I visited the show last week and was certainly amazed at the various new contraptions known as a "home on wheels." There were streamlined trailers, air conditioned trailers, equipped with every convenience— a miniature home on wheels. The prices ranged from $450 to $2,500 and most of them could be purchased on the installment plan.

The trailer is of course the new covered wagon—but what a difference?

The show was worth the trip, but many a cash customer or a potential cash customer never got to first base when he wanted to inspect certain trailers . . . Nobody seemed to trust anybody. The doors were invariably barred by some big "mug" who denied admittance. "Look in the windows but don't come inside," was his warning. So for that reason all one got for his admission ticket was just a peek, and to my way of thinking that is not good salesmanship.

Publicity given our Wistaria Vine by the big newspapers in Los Angeles, the Pasadena press and our weekly neighbortown papers resulted in a record breaking attendance last Sunday according to those who are in a position to know . . . There were more visitors in this city on that day than ever before in history, so it is claimed.

When a flowering vine rates the news publicity given our wistaria show spot, we have something of which every loyal citizen should feel justly proud.

TOWN PICKUPS

Officer Jim Heasley has a new pet. It is a friendly little white dog that has adopted Jim and who follows him like Mary's little lamb . . . "I didn't adopt him," chirps Heasley. "He adopted me. I can't get rid of him." Friendly Tom Tyler is seriously considering opening a men's furnishing store on the main stem . . . "The wistaria vine was just as beautiful as they said it would be," remarked a pleasant faced old lady to a friend as she boarded a trolley car for Los Angeles, early last Sunday afternoon . . . Harold Roberts had the interior of his market redecorated over the weekend and our old friend George "Happy" Hapgood did the job . . . Pat West is planning to stage a rip snorting benefit show for the Sierra Madre ball team which needs money for uniforms, etc. Pete Dyche, Sierra Madre's new druggist, is a firm believer in advertising. "One reason why business is satisfactory here, "he says. . . . Eleven year old Gordon Zahler who lives in our canyon is a fast worker. He visited Pasadena one afternoon last week, saw three picture shows, ate four bags of peanuts and wrapped himself around an ice cream soda before he called it a day . . .

Wonder where Al Myers will install home plate in that new enclosed ball park he promised the boys right after election last Fall? . . . Now is the time to see the poppies and lupines at their very best . . . Chico the black spotted great Dane that formerly ambled around the streets with his master now rides in an automobile.

Adios—See you all next week.

The.... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

NOT for the world would we ever leave Sierra Madre to live again in New York. Just the same we do feel, every now and then, a fleeting twinge of homesickness for the bigger place. It also has a sweetness. It isn't all night-club, Minsky burlesque, and the latest sensational murder. No, nor crooked politics. Not even when the politics are those of Tammany Hall. We knew an old Tammany sachem once.

AT that time we owned a comical little girl fox-terrier. Young when we got her; but even then demure. With big sad eyes and the longest evelashes we've ever seen on any dog. Everybody loved her—the elevator boys, the fellows at the taxi-stand, the girl-librarians at the Carnegie Branch we patronized. (Where dogs were admitted; New York's like that.) Well ,anyway, we loved her too. From our very first sight of her. Which was at a Swedish boarding house, where the pup had been kept following the death of a former master. The Swedish lady who ran the place cried a little as we took the dog away. "Und her name," she called out after us, "vas Nelly Kelly."

SO, every morning after that, unless it was positively raining pitchforks, we'd take Nelly Kelly over for a walk in Riverside Park. In that part of the park just south of Grant's Tomb. The oldest part. Shut off from roaring Riverside Drive by a lofty escarpment of original rock and massive walls. A place of grass and flowers and majestic old tulip-trees. As quiet as our own little park here in Sierra Madre. Only there, instead of our mountains you had the Hudson—two misty miles across to the Jersey shore and hazing away as far as you could see along the gray-green Palisades. So peaceful, so empty, that spacious landscape at times, you could almost imagine you saw the ships of old Hendrik Hudson still down there. And it was here we got acquainted with our Tammany sachem.

AND others. Women as well as men. Spontaneously. Simply. Intimately. Just as you would here in Sierra Madre. The same sort of people. Except that there in New York it was more like some informal little club. Formed on the basis of a heart-interest really. For we were drawn together by our dogs. Childless ladies— always a bit wistful it seemed to us— with Pekes and Boston bulls. Elderly gentlemen—mostly "decayed," as our English friends might put it, yet still with impeccable Scotties, Airdales, Poms.

THEN, early one morning when no one else seemed to be about, except an unusual lot of birds and squirrels, Nelly Kelly went frisking down the path. And there was a big gray police dog looking exactly like a wolf; then a man we'd never seen before. The image came to us later of the Wolf of Gubbio, the one St. Francis tamed; and and of St. Francis himself—albeit the man was considerably larger than St. Francis was supposed to be and very much better dressed. But the face might have been that of the Saint. A lean and benevolent face, humorous but sad. "Rex won't hurt your little dog," the stranger told us gently.

HE'D been sitting there alone on a bench looking out over the Hudson. He invited us to a place at his side. A fine old gentleman well past seventy, with a hint of the mystic about him. Nelly Kelly put her paws against him and looked up wagging the stump of her tail. In a dignified way he picked her up and laughed at her solemn eyes. "So her name is Nelly Kelly," he said, "Well, my name is Patrick Sheehy." "THE Patrick Sheehy?" we asked. "I suppose so," he said, "if you're referring to Tammany Hall."

WE hated Tammany—or thought we did. We had hated it all our life. Bitterly. Mr. Sheehy, born in New York, had grown old in the service of Tammany—he was one of the great chieftains of the Hall. We knew that name. At first we used to prod him some on the sins of Tammany. He didn't mind. He was aware of them. He loathed them himself, those sins. But Tammany — Tammany was human. "Like New York," he said. Often he'd let some remark of ours pass in silence, and we'd look at his face on the sly.

AND we'd sort of speculate. We'd wonder. While Rex and Nelly Kelly sat there side by side and contemplated the landscape. We'd come to love Mr. Sheehy. There was a sweetness about New York. Maybe, after all, Tammany wasn't so bad. It's easy to be unfair in politics.

Scientists have learned that brain cell activity gives off light. Now we know why so many people are in the dark.

Acreage in Los Angeles county planted to popcorn is double that of last year, according to Harold J. Ryan, county agricultural commissioner. In 1936 only 500 acres were planted to this crop, while this year approximately 1000 acres are seeded to popcorn.

Spirits are turning their attention to orchard heating these days. A Los Angeles woman has advised Roger Jessup, chairman of the county board of supervisors, that she received a spirit message telling her to inform public officials that electric arc lamps should be substituted for the soot-belching oil heaters.

Pointing out that everyone spends more money paying taxes than buying food, Representative Hartley of New Jersey suggested in a recent address that all goods bear labels showing the amount of taxes included in the retail sales price. "You pay more for taxes than you do for food or rent, and twice as much as you spend for clothing," Hartley said. "That's true, whether you pay an income tax and a real estate tax or not. The earnings of three months of your year's work, or about 25 cents out of every dollar you earn, is what you pay to be governed."

Only now with the April sunshine and harvest time for California Valencia oranges, are people beginning to realize what a body blow the sharp winter frosts dealt to the citrus industry. In Central California, for example, instead of the 6000 cars once expected, growers are counting on only about 500 care of Valencias. Losses like this are hard to take. But if you think the farmers are discouraged or the citrus industry shaken, then you don't know farmers or the robust character of the citrus industry in California.

Motor vehicles in the United States last year used 535,000,000 gallons of lubricants, according to the Commerce department.

It seems that the United States has produced three million miles of highway, and perhaps four hundred miles are now surfaced state highways — with 50,000 miles of similar roads being added every year.

Of the 38,500 persons killed in traffic accidents last year— less than 12,000 of them were killed in cities. The remainder, nearly 27,000, were killed in rural areas or on the "open road." This does not mean, however, that city folk are better drivers than rural motorists—for many of the persons killed on the open road were urban residents. It does mean that drivers, once they get out of city traffic, are more or less "on their own," and seem more likely to take chances. In city traffic where there are stop-and-go lights, stop signs and other regulatory measures, the driver knows he has to follow the rules or he will be subject to arrest.

Remember how, a few years ago, the G-men moved in with machine guns to mow down the big time gangsters with their own medicine of hot lead? Well, that era is gone. The "shoot-it-out" chapter in American crime history is closed. "We have almost ceased firing," a G-man told the press the other day. The reason is they don't have to fire anymore. Karpis, Campbell, Mahan and Robinson were taken without a shot. There was just as much yellow in the spines of the Dillingers and the Pretty-Boy Floyds, who killed without quarter because they knew they were armed better than the law. But the big, bold, bad men are not so brave, it seems, when they know they'll get back just what they "dish out," and more.

LEGISLATION SOUGHT TO HALT SITDOWN STRIKES ON FARMS

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California

TRESPASS, always a threat to the farmer's peace of mind, as well as his pocketbook, has suddenly become one of the gravest problems confronting California agriculture, due to the advent of the "sit-down strike."

Spread of the "sit-down strikes" to farming areas. during the harvest season, would inevitably bring the wholesale destruction of crops, with terrific losses, it is generally recognized.

As a consequence, farm legislation dealing with trespass takes on new importance at the present session of the State Legislature.

Aimed directly at the problem are companion bills by Senator Harry L. Parkman of San Mateo and Assemblyman Harrison W. Call of South San Francisco.

These bills, designed to protect the farmer from "sit-down strikes" which would prohibit the harvesting of crops, would amend the definition of "crimnal trespass" to include any person who "enters upon the real property in the possession of another, OR REMAINS THEREON," without permission of the owner, or his agent.

From the standpoint of agriculture, enactment of the Parkman-Call bills is of vital importance, for farmers certainly cannot afford the costly experience of having their farms over-run by radical agitators and strikers while their crops rot in the fields and their year's income disappears into thin air.

Old-style trespass—the problem of hunters, fishermen and campers, whose careless depredations cost farmers thousands of dollars every year—will also be at issue before the lawmakers in a bill by Assemblyman Frank L. Baynham of Pomona ,seeking to give the farmer further protection.

The Baynham bill would make trespass laws apply more generally to fishermen and campers, as well as hunters.

Perhaps the most urgent need today in coping with both social and economic problems is a new appreciation of the simple truth that the only way to protect and guarantee one's rights and liberties is to recognize and respect the rights and liberties of others.

The Golden Rule, fundamentally, is the foundation of any democratic government, or any orderly society. Illegal seizure of property by "sit-downers" and careless trespass on farm property would both end automatically, if every citizen valued the right of his fellow citizens, as he values his own.

"Sit-down strikers," for example, if they think clearly, will recognize that they are advocating a return to the vicious doctrine that "might is right." And labor would most assuredly come off second best if that principle were re-established. That is the very doctrine which labor has fought most bitterly through the years. And even Senator Hiram W. Johnson, staunch friend of labor, has sounded the warning that the "sit-down strike" is the road to anarchy or dictatorship!

The old rule "Do unto others" still applies. And disregard of that rule means disregard by others—an end to the rights and privileges which are the rewards of an orderly society.

LONG LIST OF UNUSUALLY INTERESTING VOLUMES ADDED TO LIBRARY

HEADED by Ernest Sutherland Bates' "Story of the Supreme Court," a history and interpretation of the Nation's No. 1 tribunal, many important spring books have just been added to the shelves of the public library.

Notable biographies, autobiographies and histories are included in the non-fiction list.

"Midnight on the Desert" is the frankly revealing record of J. B. Priestley's journey's in this country and his impressions of America gathered from them. From the accession of Victoria as Queen to the death of George V, Philip Guedalla plucks the high-light moments of history and presents them in 'The Hundred Years," a gorgeously colored politico-economic cavalcade. Ralph Roeder, the author of "Man of the Renaissance," packs human interest and suspense into "Catherine de Medici and the Lost Revolution," a smooth-flowing, finely-written narrative of a ruthless queen and her times.

Other new non-fiction includes "Beam Ends," Flynn; "Victorious Living," Jones; "Shrine of a Thousand Buddhas," Tucci; "Aaron Burr," Alexander; "Nicholas II," Essed-Bey, and "We or They," Armstrong.

A wealth of new fiction awaits library partons. "Jordanstown," by the author of "Now in November," Josephine Johnson, tells with fine sensitivity and insight of a year in the life of a small industrial town. John Steinback, a superb and versatile craftsman, tells the warm and tragic story of George and Lennie, two fruit-tramps in California, who belong to the socially disinherited, in "Of Mice and Men." Meyer Levin's "The Old Bunch" deals with the diverting lives of a group of young Jews in Chicago.

The law of the land is the theme of Martha Ostenso's stern-charactered novel, "The Stone Field." With the tenderness and finish of "Mr. Chips," James Hilton, in a combination idyl and detective story, "We Are Not Alone," writes of a "little doctor" in a small cathedral town.

A woman's quest for happiness in marriage," Bread and Roses," by Kathleen Norris, is specific treatment of a general problem.

Other new fiction includes "Time At Her Heels," Aldis; "As Long As I Live," Loring, and "Theatre," Maugham.

A total of 3805 adult and 890 juvenile books were circulated during March, Miss Lulu Moore, the librarian reports. Twenty-four persons registered for borrowers privileges.

FEAR OF INFLATION SENDS BONDS DOWN

While stocks, in their general trend, have been going up, bonds have been going down since they reached their all-time high last December. There are various minor reasons for this, but one overshadowing major reason: Fear of inflation. Most of the business commentators have been discussing and anticipating credit inflation for some time. A short time ago the President pointed to the danger of it appearing in the near future.

No Need To Set Aside A "Be Kind To Animals Week" Here Says School Principal

"Every week is 'Be Kind to Animals Week' with us," according to Miss Elizabeth Steinberger public school principal here, who yesterday explained there will be no special observance of the Humane Society-sponsored week at the school because Sierra Madre boys and girls give their pets "extra consideration" 365 days a year.

Two women staged the first "Be Knd to Animals Week" in Kansas City, Kan., 20 years ago. Since that time similar observances have been held annually. This year's "Week," which started Sunday, will end tomorrow.

Beginning with small animals and birds that come near to the child's heart, sponsors of the "kindness to animals" movement have extended their work to include the abolishing of bullfights, cutting of dogs' ears in the name of "style" and doing away with cruel traps used to catch fur-bearing animals.

Occupants Injured As Car From Bell Jumps Into Ravine

Discovery of several people, all blood-spattered and some apparently hurt, standing beside a smashed guard rail on Santa Anita avenue a short distance above the ranger station was reported to Forester Jack Converse by two youths early Saturday evening.

Converse immediately notified police here who investigated and found an abandoned sedan in the bottom of a ravine alongside the road. A section of the smashed rail was sticking through the radiator.

The car was registered to Charles Love, 6926 Park avenue, Bell.

Promixity Of Four To Wilson Hi Wins Action From Health Officials

County health department officials yesterday were on record as admitting that four daries constitute a health menace to the fast-growing unincorporated area southwest of here.

Located in the immediate vicinity of the dairies is the Woodrow Wilson Junior High school, attended by many Sierra Madre boys and girls.

A notice to vacate their properties within six months was given to owners of the four daries by Supervisor Roger W. Jessup Monday, after a conference of dairymen and residents of the district. Jessup said he will introduce an ordinance to the board of supervisors which will carry with it the necessary legal force to prevent further operations of the dairies after October 15.

Dairy owners accepted the notice but gave no indication whether they would abide by it.

Mrs. Beulah Malone, president of the Oak Park Improvement Association, presented figures showing that 1750 pupils attend the Willard Elementary School and Wilson Junior High. She asserted odors and flies from the four daries were objectionable to the students.

BIG CAST IN MAYTIME AT LYRIC THEATRE

"Maytime," based on the unforgettable Broadway play by Rida Johnson Young, comes to the Lyric Theatre enhance tenfold by the vaster resources of Hollywood and the artistry of Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer workmen.

Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy and John Barrymore are the stars. Lynne Carver, a screen newcomer, has the juvenile feminine romantic part with Tom Brown.

On the same pogram is "Her Husband's Secretary" with Jean Muir, Beverly Roberts, and Warren Hull as the three points of a new sort of movie triangle.

owned large hotel interests in Boston and Greenfield, Mass. Coming to Sierra Madre in 1923, he was appointed to the city council on November 24, 1926, and was reelected in November, 1928. He was a member of the building committee when the present city hall was erected.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three brothers, Sol Isaacs, of Newton, Mass.; John Isaacs, of Lawrence, Mass., and William Isaacs, of Methuen, Mass.

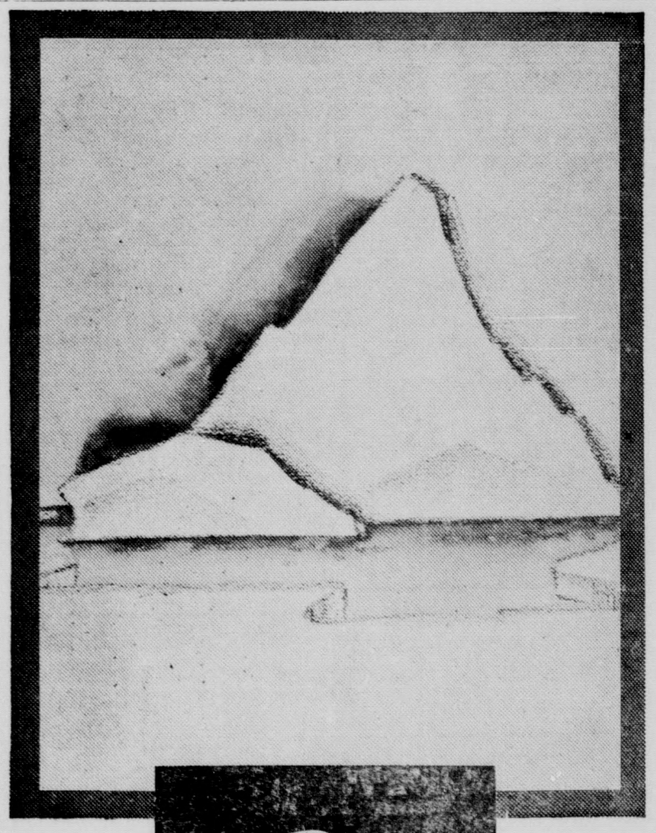

In commemoration of Mr. Isaacs, the following poem was written by Mrs. Raymond Townsend, a friend of the family:

His soul on upward flight has gone,
No pain or sighs in that beyond
Are there for him to know.
His spirit, free as any bird,
Soars far above all earthly woe;
While the memories of his tender heart
Still live with us below.

Cook THE COOL WAY ELECTRICALLY

This is how cool it is to cook on an electric range in contrast to the hot, old-fashioned way . . . and that's an advantage which Southern California homemakers particularly appreciate. So, to cook the food instead of the cook, change now to a modern electric range. See your electric dealer.

City Enters Auto Safety Contest

Sierra Madre Stands Chance To Win State Group Honor, Declares McMillan

Sierra Madre has entered the inter-city traffic safety contest, sponsored by the state traffic commission, in an effort to curb the grim toll of highway deaths, Police Chief G. G. McMillan announced yesterday.

The contest is based upon the average accident record of each California city for the past three years. Points will be awarded for the percentage of reduction of traffic mishaps, and at the end of the year the honor city in each population group will be recognized with an official sign which will be placed at the point where each state highway enters the city.

There has been only one traffic fatality here during the three-year period of 1934, 1935 and 1936, McMillan said. Only accidents in which persons were injured are included in the list.

"Sierra Madre stands a good chance of taking first place in its population group," the chief said.

Bring your building problems to us like many other Sierra Madre people have done. We can develop your job from the original idea to the delivery of a completed home.

WILD FLOWER AND DESERT DISPLAY NOW BEST IN MANY YEARS

Loop Trip Discloses Wonders of Mojave And San Joaquin

In no year of recent history has Southern California been so blessed with as gorgeous a display of wild flowers as exists at the present time. Due to the heavy rains of the winter months, not only have the field blossoms come forth in unusual splendor but the mountain sides, often too dull and brown to present a pretty picture, have dressed themselves in a beautiful green spring coat that defies description.

With the Wild Flowers of the lower San Joaquin valley as the ultimate objective and wishing to take in a loop trip so there would be no back-tracking, our scout car set out last Sunday morning to view the wonders of nature created in a great measure by the winter rains of which we all became so tired, but that now are being duly appreciated by the nature seeker.

We left Los Angeles at 6:30 a. m., for two very good reasons. First, to avoid the heavy traffic of San Fernando road which starts with a rush about nine o'clock and second, because the trip we planned was 314 miles in length which, with stops at interesting points and for dinner, meant at least twelve hours elapsed time before reaching home.

Traveling north on San Fernando road we branched east on Highway No. 7, through Saugus, on up beautiful Mint canyon to Palmdale, Lancaster and on to Mojave. The familiar Joshua groves north of Lancaster are now in full bloom and present a picture that cannot be duplicated. As one Easterner pointedly remarked: "How is it possible in such dry soil for a tree to become so rheumatic in every joint." With just a little imagination one may discover most any figure his mind may conjure. Here stands a Roman soldier, probably Horatius at the bridge; there lies Goliath with David's foot on his hapless neck; yonder stands the Scarecrow of the Wizard of Oz, just as Fred Stone portrayed him; oh, countless, endless figments of one's imagination! All are there if one but wanders about among these freaks of the desert looking at them from every angle.

From Mojave we turned northwest on Highway No. 466, and started our climb over the Tehachapi range to Bakersfield and the springtime wonders of the San Joaquin. Snow still lies on the tops of the jagged peaks through which a beautiful paved highway winds its way, on up to the town of Tehachapi where is located the California State Penitentiary for women, and on past the beautiful tubercular sanitarium, Stony Brook Retreat, down the western side of the range where purple Lupine raise their proud heads on either side of the road all the way to Bakersfield.

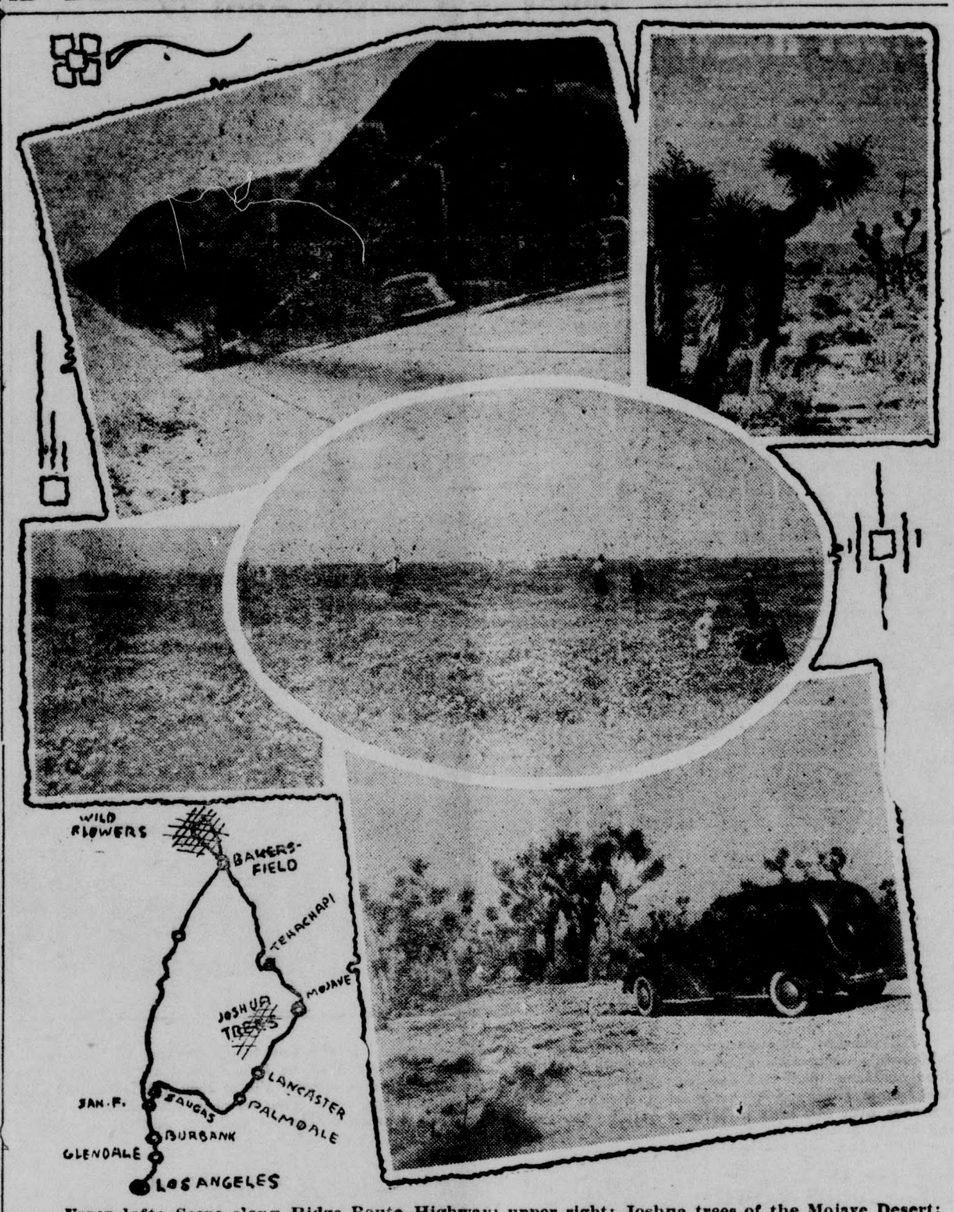

We arrived in the latter very busy city at noontime and after a hearty dinner proceeded north on the Fresno highway to Lerdo where we turned west and entered the enchanted land of the California Wild Flower. If the Supreme Artist were to hover over this area in a giant airplane, pouring out thousands of gallons of purple, orange and yellow paint, to splash on the ground beneath, He could do no better than the riot of color which at present greets the astounded gaze of the motorist who will travel there to see this wonder of nature's artistry. The hackneyed phrase, "A picture no artist could paint," comes the nearest to a description of this sight that beggars word description.

Reluctantly leaving the fields of golden poppy and purple Lupine where hundreds of people were picking bouquets without making the slightest impression on the mass display, we returned to Bakersfield and proceeded on south over the Ridge route and home in time for evening lunch.

For those who still wish to make this trip, we have it on reliable authority that the Joshuas and Wild Flowers will be dressed in their gayest for at least two more weeks.

The entire loop is over paved highway with only thirteen miles of excellent mountain road over the Tehachapi, and of course fifty miles over the Ridge from the Grapevine to San Fernando which after all, is no different than a city street since being straightened out.

Take our advice and go NOW while the blooms are at their best. Such a year may never come again.

Sierra Madre Boys Inspect Huge U.S. Aircraft Carrier

More than 200 boys, members of Los Angeles county 4-H clubs, were conducted on a tour of U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga on Sunday. The group included 12 members of the Woodrow Wilson 4-H Club.

After a picnic lunch at Houghton Park in Long Beach the boys went aboard the Saratoga where they saw the elevator mechanism used in lifting planes to the deck and inspected the huge airplane "brakes" on the landing deck. They were also given a demonstration of one of the ship's 10-inch guns.

On the way home the group stopped of at the Venice Pike to "let off steam."

Brilliant Woman To Address Townsend Club On Thursday

Mrs. Julia A. Sharp will speak at the next meeting of the Sierra Madre Townsend Club in the City Hall, Thursday night, April 22, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Sharp has quite a remarkable background. She is a National lecturer for the Townsend Movement, a past Worthy Matron of the Eastern Star and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was the first woman in America to be appointed Deputy Sheriff, serving in that capacity in Texas where she lived for many years.

WATER CONSERVATION PLAN OF SIERRA MADRE WINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

SIERRA MADRE'S water-conservation program, which involves the use of spreading basins to catch run-off waters from Little Santa Anita Canyon, received national recognition recently when the program was outlined in a feature article in the Christian Science Monitor.

Under a heading "Small Ponds Praised as the way to Fight Drought; Experiments in California Prove Their Worth," the Monitor, in its issue of April 2, disscussed the local project, Middle West droughts and the value of ponds, even small ones, as the simplest insurance against drought conditions. The writer goes on to say that "now, through an ingenious experiment at Sierra Madre, another service rendered by such ponds is pointed out.

"It is this. They prevent water from rushing off the land in torrents after heavy rains. They slow up the spate of water in gullies and arroyos, and hold it stationary long enough to permit it to percolate through the soil, instead of draining away to no useful purpose. That it does so percolate was evident when, after recent downpours, Sierra Madre's city wells rose seven feet in 24 hours. If the water level had risen gradually, it would have been assumed that there was merely a normal percolation through the soil after the rains. But the sudden rise in the wells, which was carefully checked, could only be accounted for as percolation from the so-called spreading grounds which were established near the town four years ago as a water conservation and flood control project.

"When, after heavy rains, the water rushes out of nearby Santa Anita canyon, it is not permitted to race away through its own channels, but is caught and spread out among a number of basins, and the runoff is greatly reduced. There are five of these basins, and between them is a maze of channels and dams and water falls. The water is held back from its headlong course long enough to permit it to soak into the soil, and silt is kept out of the bottom of the basins to make this percolation more rapid. One of the basins recently sank four feet in 12 hours, and the water evidently went from the spreading basin to the city wells, where it was intended to go."

"Why should he need all that money? He's not a family man."

"No, but he has a very expensive set of habits to support."

Why Fail With Flowers?

Failure with annual flower seed is likely to be due in most cases to one of two causes—the time they take to germinate and the tininess of the seedling plants.

Annuals which germinate quickly, such as zinnias, which come up in a few days, are easy for most garden makers. But larkspurs take fifteen days; petunias, twenty; sweet peas, fifteen, and in general there is a great variation in the time it takes flower seeds to start growing, with many varieties taking much longer than the beginner is likely to expect.

Straight Rows, Careful Planning and Thinning Pay Out in End.

Consequently many a sowing is given up for lost before the seed has had time to grow, and when the seedlings do come they are not discovered.

Tiny flower seedlings are easily destroyed by the wash of rains across the bed. They are subject to other hazards which will usually destroy them unless the gardener has discovered and is taking care of them. A beginner is well advised if he sows his flowers in a seed bed, in rows which can be marked. The bed should be surrounded by a wooden curb 2 inches high, which will keep rain from washing over it.

When the seedlings appear they will be recognized because they are in the row, and can be identified from the label. The gardener can become familiar with the appearance of the different flowers in the seedling stage. He will then be equipped to sow them broadcast in the border another year with the assurance of being able to tell flower seedlings from weeds.

A.L.A. Activities

SUNDAY was a red letter day for both the Legion and Auxiliary. A caravan of families laden with lunch baskets made the business of planting trees, a pleasure. Playing in the snow the party included Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cant, Collin Hill and family; Commander E. D. Robertson and family; Roy Pickett and family; Henry Olsen, Sam Graham, Virginia Embree, Walter Reed and Major Kaye.

Hostesses for the last meeting were Orcelia Stinman and Leila Embree. Lucille Pickett carried home the pottery "surprise package." A display of Junior handiwork was the center of attention.

More help is needed for the sale of tickets on the quilt, as the program is on the last lap to complete this year's work. After so much work on this article, won't you help get this moving?

Wild Flower Show On The Desert Is A Real Treat

Among those who journeyed to the farflung ends of the Wildflower Empire on Sunday were members of the Curtis-Bolms family of 56 West Mira Monte avenue, who motored to the Mojave desert with Mr .and Mrs. Benjamin West Morris, of Azusa. Long yearning glances at the rich gold of incomparably beautiful poppies and luncheon in a Joshua-tree forests all helped to make up a marvelously happy day.

FIRE FLAMES

By One Of The Boys

THE fire drill on Friday took the big truck to Auburn and Hermosa, where a fast hookup was made and water pumped. The recently acquired "fog-tip" nozzle worked well under high pressure. This nozzle forms a very fine mist and is very valuable in extinguishing oil fires, and has proven a great aid in house fires.

A good stop of what was headed for a disasterous blaze was made on a call last Tuesday. The occupants of this house deserve much cerdit for the stop, as they very cooly went to work with a garden hose and kept the blaze from spreading. This was another roof fire and was discovered by a passer-by.

The Kiwanis Club met at the Wistaria Vine last Tuesday and the group was just ready to "watch the birdie" of a camera when the fire siren sounded. Hibbs, Heasley and Lange almost upset the camera to get out of the grounds in answer to the call.

The semi-monthly meetings of the firemen are becoming more and more popular. Each meeting finds all the seats filled.

A little white dog has won the hearts of all the firemen and police. He is just a dog, but one look at him tells you that he is a fine dog. His brown eyes tell you that he likes you, and when he wags his stubby tail, there is nothing to do but like him. The men at the Lovell's garage take care of him thru' the day. Here he gets his best food. As soon as the garage closes for the day, the little purp can be seen travelling to the city hall. where he knows the police. He knows the man that goes out in the car and if he wants to take a ride for the evening, this man cannot get out of his sight.

TYPICAL EFFECTS OF A STRIKE IN ANY MAJOR INDUSTRY

The chart above shows how the chief effects of a strike begin immediately to spread in all directions. Back at the supply sources, cancelled orders for raw and semi-finished materials and equipment tend to create additional unemployment and lost business in ever-widening circles. In distribution channels, sales, employment, and income fall off more or less sharply. Transportation revenues shrink. Curtailed business and thin pocketbooks at the strike center, in the supply sources, and distribution and transportation channels result in generally reduced retail trade, smaller tax collections, increased relief burdens. This picture of the long train of losses, even much simplified as it is, indicates why economists cannot estimate in advance the total cost of a strike. Studies of the losses from previous strikes show that their total cost mounts to anywhere from 6 to 700 times the value of wages lost by men thrown out of work at the strike center itself.

Sierra Madreans To Serve As Models At Fashion Show

Several hundred Sierra Madre children who are enrolled in the Broadoaks School of Pasadena, will model at the school's junior fashion tea, commencing at 2 p.m. tomorrow, at the Sierra Madre Villa home of Dr. A. B. Cliff.

The young misses will be Nancy Eaton, Maryrider Myers, Phyllis Smith, Dolly Lewis, Janet Fowler, Theanna Stevens, Ducky Huffman, Betty Pearson and Peggy and Barbara Pitcher.

Dr. Cliff's daughter, Analee, will be in charge of the affair, which will include songs by Mrs. Helen Sadler Starr, accompanied by Wanona Baly, and accordian selections by Edith Eliot.

Mrs. Lillian A. Downey, acting head of the nursery school department, and Faith McElfresh, junior class president, will pour.

Putting the youthful modelers through their paces, in preparation for tomorrow's show, has been Betty Francisco.

YPC Membership Drive Ends Sunday

Rev. Richard R. Morgon, pastor of the Oneonta Congregational church will be the speaker Sunday evening at 6:30 at the Congregational Young People's Society. All young people are cordially invited. Refreshments will be served folowing the meeting.

For the past two months there has been an attendance contest and the side that brought in the most new members will be given a party by the losing side. Tonight they are giving the party, starting at 7:30, in the social hall of the church. Everyone who has attended any of the meetings is urged to attend.

Arts Guild Here To See Vine Visits Picturesque Church

The Church Arts Guild of Pasadena visited the Wistaria Vine on Tuesday. The members spent an hour at the Church of the Ascension, where Dean Bode gave an instruction on church art and symbolism, and also a lecture with illustrations in the Parish House on the evolution of music. All expressed themselves as delighted with the vine and the picturesque church.

Newspaper Women Enjoy A Treat "In The Country"

Sierra Madre was visited on Saturday by a bevy of newspaper women who came from other fields to explore the famed beauty spots of the village as guests of the Misses Rosalie Curtis and Mildred Curtis Bolms of 56 West Mira Monte avenue. As monthly guests of Mrs. Evelyn White, founder of the widely-known "Poppy Trail Villa," and partakers of her artistic programs, the hostesses were determined to vie with the fare received there and give back something that would compare favorably with her hospitality. Every moment was therefore, carefully planned to produce this desired result.

At tables dressed in soft green and brown linens and embellished with bowls of roses, the visitors the visitors sat down to a typical Southern repast cooked with all of the Curtis skill and served on, following the theme of the Wistaria tint, a rare set of old Haviland in lavender hues, which was a possession of the hostesse's grandmother.

Placecards humorously outlining the day's events, directed the guests to "Treehaven," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Conard, for a group photograph immediately after luncheon. Subjects of mutual interest were discussed together with a visit to the pigeon cages, after which French heels plodded toward the Wistaria Vine.

The bright lights of Broadway lost their significance beside the impressiveness of the scene that greeted their city-bred eyes.

A motor trip through the Canyon completed this most unusual day "in the country."

Those who enjoyed it were Mrs. Evelyn White, Mrs. Alice Bradman, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Elizabeth MacKinney, Mrs. Benjaman West Morris, Beth Morrow of the Montebello News; Mrs. Clara H. Bolms, Mrs. Pauline Rogers, Mrs. Violet Hodge Miss Hilda Doughty, and the hostesses.

Drama Guild Rally To Present Two More Plays

Announcement was made at the weekly meeting of the Senior Drama Guild that the Guild's newspaper would be ready the week of April 26. Russell Lovejoy and Norma Hogan, members of the Guild, gave short talks for the benefit of their guests, Mrs. Gingrich, Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Quittner. Norma Hibbs, chairman of the card party committee, chose as her committee, Irvine Ingram, Eddie Ranahan and Jim Gingrich. Lee Shippey will be next week's guest speaker.

The social committee has planned a progressive dinner this evening for Lois Pickett, a member who recently moved to Duarte with her parents.

Mrs. Norman Jensen and the American Legion Auxiliary are making the curtains for the Guild's Little Theatre. W. R. Humphries has presented the organization with a piano to be used in the theatre.

The plays "Talent" by Norma Hogan, and "The Monkey Suit" by Mrs. Frances Eakman were rehearsed following the meeting.

The music group met Saturday morning at the Park House. Two new members, Jack and Barbara Colligan were added to the group.

Motorists Ask For Rmoval Of Tree On The Boulevard

Removal of an overhanging pepper tree on West Sierra Madre boulevard because it is a "hazard to motorists" was requested of the city council Wednesday night by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The tree is situated on the north side of the boulevard, about 50 feet east of Sunnyside avenue.

Stating that Sierra Madre members of the club have asked it to call the city's attention to the tree, the club asserted that several cars have been damaged when the drivers attempted to park their cars near the tree.

Investigation by the club has disclosed that the tree, which has a trunk diameter of about 18 inches, overhangs the curb about one foot at a point four feet above the street.

The club's request for removal of the tree was referred to the city planning commission.

SELL FORGET-ME-NOTS FOR WAR VETERANS

A request to conduct a "Forget-Me-Not Day" and sale here on April 24 was granted Foothill Chapter No. 55, Disabled Veterans of the World War, by the city council Wednesday night.

Forget-me-not flowers will be sold by Sierra Madre girls during the day, the proceeds to be used for emergency medical welfare work among disabled veterans.

Chapter No. 55 is made up of disabled men and women living in Sierra Madre, Arcadia, El Monte, Baldwin Park, Glendale, Azusa and Monrovia.

Masons Give Party As Farewell To Leonard Wammock

Nearly 100 members of the Masonic lodge and their friends sat down to a pot luck dinner Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple complimenting Leonard Wammock, who will sail next Tuesday for Mari, Sarawak, Borneo, where he will resume his former position with an oil company. Mrs. Wammock and daughter Dorothy will join Mr. Wammock at a later date. Marion L. Hays and Samuel Graham were in charge of the affair, assisted by Mrs. Alice Hogan, worthy matron of the OES chapter, Mrs. Belle Hays, Mrs. Marie Platte, Miss Ruth Allen and Mrs. Leila Hosford. Jack Buchan acted as master of ceremonies. Community singing, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Leila Embree was enjoyed by the group. In wishing Mr. Wammock a pleasant bon voyage, his friends presented him with a gift.

Early Americans To Be Topic At Woman's Society Meeting

"Our First Americans" is the subject of the Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church at regular meeting on Tuesday, April 20, in the church dining room. Mrs. Maybelle Barker is chairman of the meeting. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Mildred Taylor and Mrs. F. H. Hartman and Mrs. A. F. Guignet will act as hostesses. The luncheon will be served by Mrs. John Spoelstra's division at 12:30. Early reservations may be made with Mrs. Taylor, 118-2.

Fete's Founders Hold Reunion Under The Vine

Using the Wistaria Fete as an incentive for their regular meeting the Dickens Fellowship met for a 12:30 luncheon at the vine Thursday, with Mrs. W. S. Saunders as hostess. Following the luncheon the group met at the home of one of the members for reading.

The Wistaria Fete had its origin in the serving of light refreshments under the vine by the Dickens Fellowship to raise funds for the Red Cross during the war. Several ladies then active in the society have removed from the city but have kept up their active connections with the group. They include, Mrs. Harriet Wright of Pasadena, and Mrs. Andrews of Alhambra, charter members and Mrs. Newman Essick who has recently returned to Sierra Madre. Mrs. N. W. Tarr has served the Fellowship for years as its only officer.

"There was light." It further states that "God saw the light, that it was good." In this light that was good the entire creation of God was seen to be good and very good.

As in the realm of the physical senses light only can dispel darkness so in the mental realm spiritual understanding only can dispel the darkness of materiality, or that mental ignorance which is called matter.

It has been said of Jesus that "first he wrought and then he taught" (Chaucer). This may also be said about the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy. For some years after her healing, which came about through the light of understanding thrown on a record of healing in the Bible, she studied consecratedly the words and works of Jesus, of the prophets and apostles, and proved, by many works of healing, the truth of her discovery before she gave it to the world in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

One of the most radical of the changes made in thought as the light of spiritual understanding is approached is made in regard to that which has been called substance.

The thought of substance is inevitably linked up with the thought of supply and that brings us to one of the darkest spots in the human mind today; ignorance of what constitutes supply and of God's gracious and loving law of abundance.

Poverty is always and only a mental argument, a false concept, never a real condition or fact, and therefore must be healed mentally through spiritual enlightenment. Matter never brought enlightenment on any subject, so no amount of money or material wealth of any kind will heal the belief of poverty.

Christ Jesus never made a theoretical, merely philosophical, or sentimentally religious statement. His statements are declarations of law, to be understood, obeyed and demonstrated. He gave the perfect remedy for poverty for all time and all peoples, for nations as well as individuals, in that oft-quoted statement of the law of God: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." As God is Mind, the kingdom of God is just the kingdom of Mind. In that kingdom of Mind or infinite Love, which is the tender Father and Mother of the universe, there could not be found anything less than infinite abundance—no haunting fear of lack, no possible abatement or depletion or exhaustion of its bounty. Dwelling in that Mind, the object of its tender love and care, the very expression of its own being, could one feel less than utterly secure, bountifully cared for, actively employed? It is God's will that we should be free from care and anxiety—buoyant and joyous in activity. Not that we may indulge our physical senses or gratify merely material desires, but that we should reflect Mind, glorify good, and grow spiritually into freedom from the trammels of materiality.

FESTIVAL TO CONTINUE FOR A WEEK

GREAT FILMS COMING TO THE ARCADIA

Joe E. Brown and Marian Marsh in "When's Your Birthday" and "Soldier and the Lady," film version of Jules Verne's immortal masterpiece, "Michael Strogoff," are showing today and tomorrow at the Arcadia theatre.

Opening Sunday is "On the Avenue," with Dick Powell, Madeline Carroll and Alice Faye. Irving Berlin contributes the songs. "Black Legion," the second feature, strips the mask from recent terrorist activities in and around Detroit, Mich. The bill is shown through Tuesday.

There will be a continuous performance starting at 3 p.m. Sunday, the management announces.

CORONATION SPECIAL

In a three act ceremony, crowned with laughter, the Pasadena Community Playhouse will stage a pre-Coronation special in the riotous comedy, "God Save the Queen," slated for April 20 to May 1.

CLASS IN PSYCHOLOGY ON FIELD TRIP HERE

Members of the psychology class of the adult education department of the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte High School, which includes a number of Sierra Madreans, will make a field trip to the British Old People's Home here next Monday, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Nancy Bowen.

City Enters Auto Safety Contest

Sierra Madre Stands Chance To Win State Group Honor, Declares McMillan

Sierra Madre has entered the inter-city traffic safety contest, sponsored by the state traffic commission, in an effort to curb the grim toll of highway deaths, Police Chief G. G. McMillan announced yesterday.

The contest is based upon the average accident record of each California city for the past three years. Points will be awarded for the percentage of reduction of traffic mishaps, and at the end of the year the honor city in each population group will be recognized with an official sign which will be placed at the point where each state highway enters the city.

There has been only one traffic fatality here during the three-year period of 1934, 1935 and 1936, McMillan said. Only accidents in which persons were injured are included in the list.

"Sierra Madre stands a good chance of taking first place in its population group," the chief said.

Bring your building problems to us like many other Sierra Madre people have done. We can develop your job from the original idea to the delivery of a completed home.

WILD FLOWER AND DESERT DISPLAY NOW BEST IN MANY YEARS

Loop Trip Discloses Wonders of Mojave And San Joaquin

In no year of recent history has Southern California been so blessed with as gorgeous a display of wild flowers as exists at the present time. Due to the heavy rains of the winter months, not only have the field blossoms come forth in unusual splendor but the mountain sides, often too dull and brown to present a pretty picture, have dressed themselves in a beautiful green spring coat that defies description.

With the Wild Flowers of the lower San Joaquin valley as the ultimate objective and wishing to take in a loop trip so there would be no back-tracking, our scout car set out last Sunday morning to view the wonders of nature created in a great measure by the winter rains of which we all became so tired, but that now are being duly appreciated by the nature seeker.

We left Los Angeles at 6:30 a. m., for two very good reasons. First, to avoid the heavy traffic of San Fernando road which starts with a rush about nine o'clock and second, because the trip we planned was 314 miles in length which, with stops at interesting points and for dinner, meant at least twelve hours elapsed time before reaching home.

Traveling north on San Fernando road we branched east on Highway No. 7, through Saugus, on up beautiful Mint canyon to Palmdale, Lancaster and on to Mojave. The familiar Joshua groves north of Lancaster are now in full bloom and present a picture that cannot be duplicated. As one Easterner pointedly remarked: "How is it possible in such dry soil for a tree to become so rheumatic in every joint." With just a little imagination one may discover most any figure his mind may conjure. Here stands a Roman soldier, probably Horatius at the bridge; there lies Goliath with David's foot on his hapless neck; yonder stands the Scarecrow of the Wizard of Oz, just as Fred Stone portrayed him; oh, countless, endless figments of one's imagination! All are there if one but wanders about among these freaks of the desert looking at them from every angle.

From Mojave we turned northwest on Highway No. 466, and started our climb over the Tehachapi range to Bakersfield and the springtime wonders of the San Joaquin. Snow still lies on the tops of the jagged peaks through which a beautiful paved highway winds its way, on up to the town of Tehachapi where is located the California State Penitentairy for women, and on past the beautiful tubercular sanitarium, Stony Brook Retreat, down the western side of the range where purple Lupine raise their proud heads on either side of the road all the way to Bakersfield.

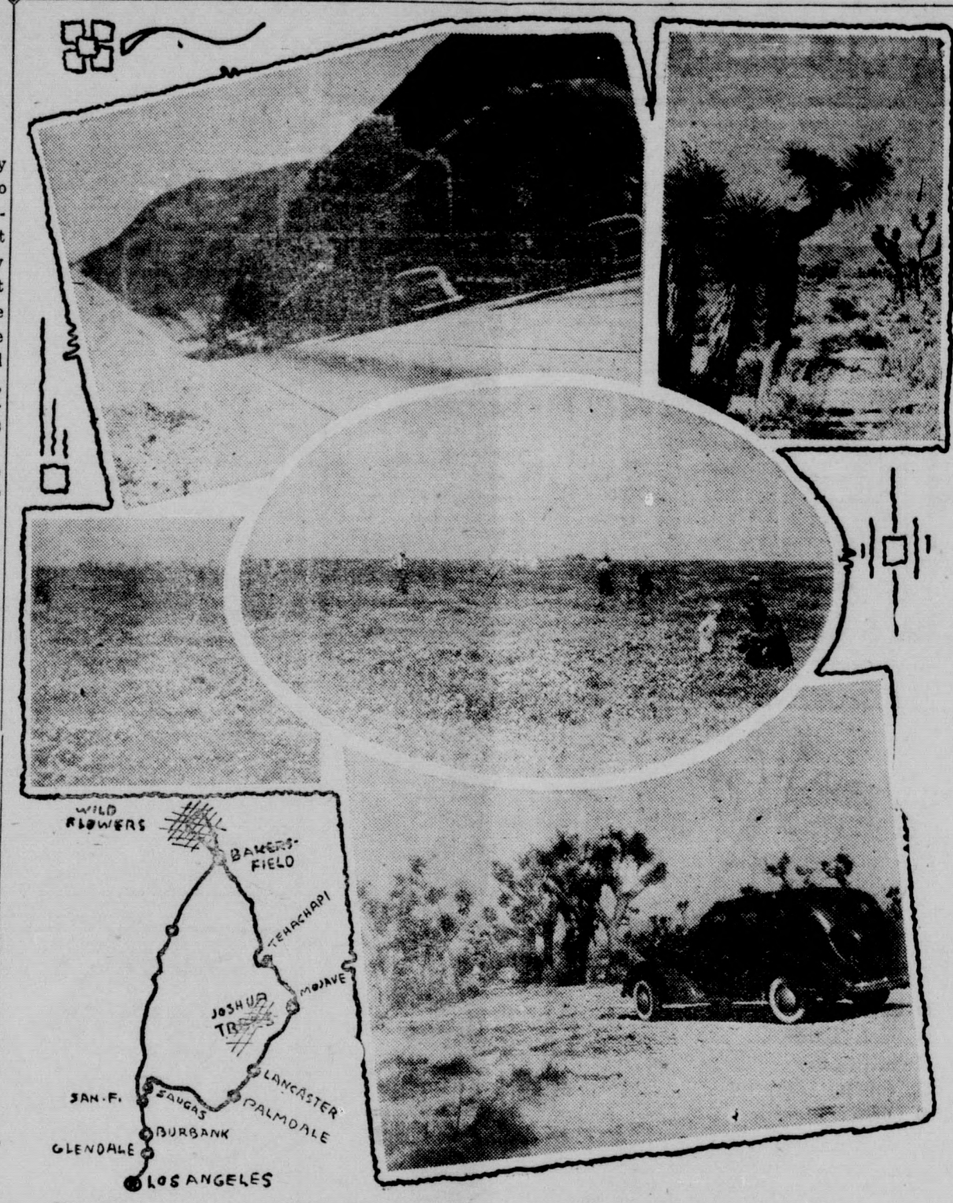

We arrived in the latter very busy city at noontime and after a hearty dinner proceeded north on the Fresno highway to Lerdo where we turned west and entered the enchanted land of the California Wild Flower. If the Supreme Artist were to hover over this area in a giant airplane, pouring out thousands of gallons of purple, orange and yellow paint, to splash on the ground beneath, He could do no better than the riot of color which at present greets the astounded gaze of the motorist who will travel there to see this wonder of nature's artistry. The hackneyed phrase, "A picture no artist could paint," comes the nearest to a description of this sight that beggars word description.

Reluctantly leaving the fields of golden poppy and purple Lupine where hundreds of people were picking bouquets without making the slightest impression on the mass display, we returned to Bakersfield and proceeded on south over the Ridge route and home in time for evening lunch.

For those who still wish to make this trip, we have it on reliable authority that the Joshuas and Wild Flowers will be dressed in their gayest for at least two more weeks.

The entire loop is over paved highway with only thirteen miles of excellent mountain road over the Tehachapi, and of course fifty miles over the Ridge from the Grapevine to San Fernando which after all, is no different than a city street since being straightened out.

Take our advice and go NOW while the blooms are at their best. Such a year may never come again.

A.L.A. Activities

SUNDAY was a red letter day for both the Legion and Auxiliary. A caravan of families laden with lunch baskets made the business of planting trees, a pleasure. Playing in the snow the party included Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cant, Collin Hill and family; Commander E. D. Robertson and family; Roy Pickett and family; Henry Olsen, Sam Graham, Virginia Embree, Walter Reed and Major Kaye.

Hostesses for the last meeting were Orcelia Stinman and Leila Embree. Lucille Pickett carried home the pottery "surprise package." A display of Junior handiwork was the center of attention.

More help is needed for the sale of tickets on the quilt, as the program is on the last lap to complete this year's work. After so much work on this article, won't you help get this moving?

Child Welfare dessert bridge needs transportation arrangements— 1 p.m., April 29th, in South Pasadena Clubhouse.

Wild Flower Show On The Desert Is A Real Treat

Among those who journeyed to the farflung ends of the Wildflower Empire on Sunday were members of the Curtis-Bolms family of 56 West Mira Monte avenue, who motored to the Mojave desert with Mr .and Mrs. Benjamin West Morris, of Azusa. Long yearning glances at the rich gold of incomparably beautiful poppies and luncheon in a Joshua-tree forests all helped to make up a marvelously happy day.

Sierra Madre Boys Inspect Huge U.S. Aircraft Carrier

More than 200 boys, members of Los Angeles county 4-H clubs, were conducted on a tour of U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga on Sunday. The group included 12 members of the Woodrow Wilson 4-H Club.

After a picnic lunch at Houghton Park in Long Beach the boys went aboard the Saratoga where they saw the elevator mechanism used in lifting planes to the deck and inspected the huge airplane "brakes" on the landing deck. They were also given a demonstration of one of the ship's 10-inch guns.

WATER CONSERVATION PLAN OF SIERRA MADRE WINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

SIERRA MADRE'S water-conservation program, which involves the use of spreading basins to catch run-off waters from Little Santa Anita Canyon, received national recognition recently when the program was outlined in a feature article in the Christian Science Monitor.

Under a heading "Small Ponds Praised as the way to Fight Drought; Experiments in California Prove Their Worth," the Monitor, in its issue of April 2, disscussed the local project, Middle West droughts and the value of ponds, even small ones, as the simplest insurance against drought conditions. The writer goes on to say that "now, through an ingenious experiment at Sierra Madre, another service rendered by such ponds is pointed out.

"It is this. They prevent water from rushing off the land in torrents after heavy rains. They slow up the spate of water in gullies and arroyos, and hold it stationary long enough to permit it to percolate through the soil, instead of draining away to no useful purpose. That it does so percolate was evident when, after recent downpours, Sierra Madre's city wells rose seven feet in 24 hours. If the water level had risen gradually, it would have been assumed that there was merely a normal percolation through the soil after the rains. But the sudden rise in the wells, which was carefully checked, could only be accounted for as percolation from the so-called spreading grounds which were established near the town four years ago as a water conservation and flood control project.

"When, after heavy rains, the water rushes out of nearby Santa Anita canyon, it is not permitted to race away through its own channels, but is caught and spread out among a number of basins, and the runoff is greatly reduced. There are five of these basins, and between them is a maze of channels and dams and water falls. The water is held back from its headlong course long enough to permit it to soak into the soil, and silt is kept out of the bottom of the basins to make this percolation more rapid. One of the basins recently sank four feet in 12 hours, and the water evidently went from the spreading basin to the city wells, where it was intended to go."

"Why should he need all that money? He's not a family man."

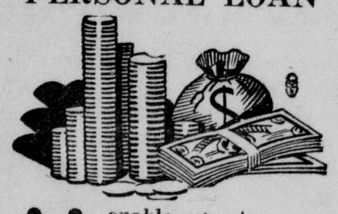

"No, but he has a very expensive set of habits to support."

Brilliant Woman To Address Townsend Club On Thursday

Mrs. Julia A. Sharp will speak at the next meeting of the Sierra Madre Townsend Club in the City Hall, Thursday night, April 22, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Sharp has quite a remarkable background. She is a National lecturer for the Townsend Movement, a past Worthy Matron of the Eastern Star and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was the first woman in America to be appointed Deputy Sheriff, serving in that capacity in Texas where she lived for many years.

Delinquent Taxables Grow Less

Collections Take Decided Spurt As Deadline For 1936-37 Payments Nears

With only five days remaining until the April 20 deadline, tax payments took a new spurt this past week, according to H. L. Byram, county tax collecter. Mr. Byram stated that on the basis of present indications tax delinquencies should show a reduction of at least 10 per cent over those of last year.

At the close of business April 3, collections for the nine month's period dating from the beginning of the fiscal year July 1, 1936, totaled $66,452,775.02. In terms of percentage this is 63.28 per cent of the total year's tax levy of $104,477,550.12.

Last year at the same date, collections totaled $60,157,352.43, or 61.76 per cent of the 1935-36 levy of $96.389,863.64.

Thus for the comparable periods, in terms of percentage, the improvement is 1.52 per cent, Mr. Byram pointed out. In terms of actual cash, the increased amount collected during this entire period is $6,295,422.50. This represents the most notable improvement in collections and most pronounced reduction in delinquencies for any comparable period since 1929, according to My Byram.

The second installment of taxes became due January 20 and becomes delinquent April 20. If taxes are not paid by that date a three per cent penalty is added, plus a 50 cent advertising charge on each item unpaid. The tax rolls close April 20 and a list of delinquent properties with owners indexed alphabetically will be published for three times commencing on or about June 8 in newspapers in all incorporated cities in Los Angeles County.

All taxes unpaid prior to the beginning of the 1936-37 fiscal year may now be redeemed in full, free from all costs and penalties excepting a seven per cent interest charge dating from July 15, 1935, but payments must be made in full or else the installment plan of making payments in ten annual parts must be adopted. To utilize the ten payment plan all current taxes must be paid up.

T. E. Tanner, chief of the redemption division, reports $7,125,000.05 collected on redemptions for the nine months' period ending March 31, as compared with $6,497,637.21 for the comparable nine months' period of 1935-36. The percentage of increase is 9.65 per cent.

Foothill Widening Project May Be Abandoned Now

Hope of widening Foothill Blvd. to a four-lane highway from Santa Anita Blvd., in Lamanda Park to Michillinda avenue appears dim, according to a report made by City Manager C. W. Koiner, of Pasadena, to the Crown City's board of directors.

Only half of the property owners in the first block east of Santa Anita boulevard are willing to deed their property for the widening project, the report stated. The other half are opposed to the widening and will not even consider it.

Unless the majority of property owners along the boulevard deed their land, the project, which would provide a high-speed, four-lane highway direct to Sierra Madre's southwest "front door," will likely fall through, as Pasadena has no money with which to purchase the necessary property, it was pointed out.

Police Wonder Whether Neighbor Or Coyotes Raided This Hen Roost

A suspicion that coyotes are once again on the rampage here received added support the other day when Miss Lalla Fagge, 353 Sycamore Place, reported the disappearance of two Rhode Island red hens.

While there have been comparatively few coyote "raids" lately, the animals regularly swooped down on unprotected hen houses in former years, old timers recalled yesterday.

During the height of their activity they enjoyed real dining-car fare, as well as plump chickens from householders' backyards.

Cooks on one of the Santa Fe night trains made a practice of tossing out galley scraps as the train swept through the Baldwin ranch. It was a regular occurance, and at the first sound of the whistle, several minutes before the speeding train hove into view, the coyotes would scamper down to the right of way in a body, settle down on their haunches and wait for their evennig meal.

At that time the animals had a kind of coyote apartment house in a huge rock pile in the ranch just below Orange Grove avenue. From it they carried on their depredations until one day the irate chicken-owners got together and staged what is still recalled as the "big coyote massacre." Armed with shotguns, they descended on the rock pile and killed off an even dozen marauders. Since then the city has had comparatively little troubled with coyotes.

Roundup For Children PTA Event

Looks Ahead To Entrance Of New Pupils At Grammar School

The Parent-Teacher Association is all agog over what is to be their first 'Summer Round-Up" on May 14th. Mrs. Persis Roach, chairman of this event, wishes to call the attention of the parents to the importance of this work.

If you have a child who is entering kindergarten or first grade next September he will have to compete with other children of his age in the task of adjusting himself to new and wholly surroundings. This is naturally a mental and physical strain.

Is your child physically fit? The Parent-Teacher Association, cooperating with the city schools and health departmen, is offering you the opportunity to have the child given a thorough physical examination without cost or obligation. Even though you feel he is 100 per cent perfect you can make sure by having a doctor verify the fact.

Thursday, May 14th, therefore is reserved for the examination of these children at the Sierra Madre school. Mrs. Roach will be glad to make an appointment for you. There will be ample time allowed for an interview with the physician. And the correction of any defect is left entirely to you.

If you know of any children in the neighborhood not in touch with the school, please pass this information on to their parents.

Throwing care to the winds, our teachers closed schoolbooks with a determined air a few minutes earlier on Monday afternoon and put a few touches of powder on preparatory to the enjoyment of a cup of afternoon tea at the Wistaria Fete in honor of P.T.A. Day at Scenic Point.

While they were absorbing the pastoral loveliness of their surroundings, we will wager, they were still thinking of the exquisite Operatta to be presented on May 13th, the great annual exhibitions also in May, and the "Summer Round-Up" on May 14.

Nevertheless, there was much food for thought and pleasure and Miss Florence Lusted, instructor of art, took away some clever ideas which she will utilize in her painting of flowers and vistas.

The setting would have been perfect for one of Miss Moote's Japanese programs, too. Many Sierra Madre mothers came during the day in behalf of the Parent-Teacher Association, as a percentage of the gate receipts are to be given to the cause. Blonde Gladys Albright, dynamic and resourceful always, has exercised a great deal of initiative this winter to make both ends meet, goodness knows.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF FORCLOSURE No. 410 999

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles.

HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. WALTER STARK, ETC., et al., Defendants.

By the judgment and decree of the above entitled action, entered and recorded on the 6th day of April, 1937, in judgment book 970 at page 26 et seq., wherein the above named plaintiff obtained judgment and decree of foreclosure and sale for the sum of Three Thousand Five Hundred eighty-two and 51/100 ($3,582.51) Dollars, plus interest and costs, to which judgment and decree reference is hereby made, and by order of sale issued to me by the clerk of the said court pursuant thereto, I am commanded to sell at public auction all of the following described premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and bounded and decsribed as follows:

The South 14-1/3 feet of Lot Thirty-eight (38) and all of Lot Thirty-nine (39), of Mrs. C. B. Jones Subdivision of the South half of the West half of Lot Fifteen (15) Sierra Madre Tract, as per map recorded in Book 13, Page 89, Miscellaneous Records of said County, together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining.

Public notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 10th day of May, 1937, at 12:00 o'clock Noon of that day, at the eastern and Spring Street entrance of the Los Angeles County Hall of Justice, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, I will sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be required in compliance with said order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale, to the highest and best bidder for cash.

JOHN A. GRAY,
Commissioner appointed by said Court.
